PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

An Interesting Letter from the State School Commissioner—The Law in Regard to Public Schools.

Editors Constitution: Permit me, through your columns, to give, as briefly as possible, certain information, 1st, to those interested in the public schools to be inaugurated for the year 1872, and, 2d, to those who have rendered services the past year and are still unpaid.

First, as to the schools for the present year. Under the amended school law, no schools can be established in any county until the fall term of the Superior Court for that county. The only school officers for the county, under the law, will be the County Board, to be composed of five freeholders, and the County Commissioner, chosen by them either from their own number, or from the citizens of the county. The Grand Jury, at its first session after the passage of the law, (sec. 16), is to choose this Board, and it is made the duty of the Board (sec. 19) to "make an estimate of the amount necessary, in addition to what will be received from the State, to carry on said schools for at least six months in the year, which estimate shall be placed before the Grand Jury at its next session, and said Grand Jury may, if they approve said estimate authorize the Ordinary or County Commissioner in such county to levy a county tax sufficient to raise the required sum." Thus it is clear no county tax can be levied till the fall term of the court; and sec. 20th, provides that "in case the Board of Education of any county shall fail to make the necessary provisions for continuing the schools in operation the length of time herein required, (six months, or in the case of ambulatory schools, three months—Com.) such graded or high schools and primary schools, as the case may be, shall not be entitled to any portion of the school fund arising from the State tax during the next succeeding school year or subsequent school years, until the establishment of such school or schools, but such fund shall remain in the treasury of the State of Georgia." This last quotation seems to establish it as the policy of the law to pay over to no county her pro rata part of the State fund, till the constituted authorities levy the necessary county tax. It is clear, then, that no schools can be established till the second term of the court, and not then without the grand jury shall authorize the levy of the necessary county tax. I would, therefore, recommend teachers to open private schools upon their own terms for the first half of the year.

2. As to the compensation for services rendered by teachers and others the past year. It will be seen from the copy of the law, which has been generally distributed among the school officers, that section 4th of the act approved 20th of January, 1872, authorizes the Governor to draw his warrant on the Treasurer in favor of the State School Commissioner for the sum of three hundred thousand dollars to be paid out of the funds then in the Treasury appropriated by law to the public school system, and if said fund is insufficient to pay the debt now due to the officers and teachers of public schools; section 5th provides that the amount shall be raised by a sale of bonds now in the Treasury of the State under act of July 16th, 1870. It is impossible for me to tell when this money will be ready for distribution for several reasons. In the first place there is great uncertainty as to what amount is due the school fund and it is impossible to ascertain at present what portion of this is now in the treasury. Second, A proviso to the section in reference to the sale of bonds says that they shall not be sold at rates injurious to the credit of the State, to be left to the discretion of the Governor. Third, Another proviso requires the money to be distributed in the proportion of the children of each county entitled to the privileges of the public schools; and there are thirty counties in the State that have not made full returns as to the number of children so entitled. Just as soon as the necessary steps can be taken to realize the money in a manner which shall accord with the provisions of the law, it will be done, and the parties in interested shall receive the proper official notice from this department.

GUSTAVUS J. ORR,
State School Commissioner.

Judgeship of the Tallapoosa Circuit.

Editors Constitution: I see that the question of the judgeship of the Tallapoosa Circuit has found its way into some of the papers. It is not generally known that the office at present is filled through an appointment made by Bullock, which has not been confirmed by the Senate. It is understood that the regular appointment and action of the Senate will take place at the next July session of the Legislature, when the removal of disabilities as expected, will give a better opportunity to make an acceptable appointment. The members of the bar in the circuit and the people feel a deep interest in the matter and urge on Governor Smith through advisement from the best sources, before making an appointment that will effect their material interest for years to come. Without disparaging the claims of others who are candidates, I will take the liberty of saying that the appointment of the Hon. Hugh Buchanan would give entire satisfaction, he is evidently the first choice of the people and the bar.

A. L. HARRIS IN A NEW ROLE.

He Writeth a Letter.

He Joketh and is Jolly.

Atlanta—Gov. Smith and "Ku-Kluxery."

[The following proves conclusively that A. L. is a far better letter-writer than a railroader. We clip from Columbus, Ohio, Gazette.—EDS. CONS.]

A COLUMBUS BOY IN GEORGIA ON THE GAZETTE—OHIO MATTERS—ATLANTA—CHATTANOOGA, ETC.

ATLANTA, GA., Jan. 24, 1872.

Dear Gazette: The sight of your familiar face is an ever-recurring, always looked for weekly pleasure. It is read by the whole family, from the good story on the first page, through to the reliable buckwheat cake recipes on the last page. Even the baby closely scrutinizes and remarks upon the big "No Shoddy" merino, and looks sadly at O'Hara's coffin. We must have the Gazette, so I send my mercurial friend, Charley Glenn, a five dollar note as "indemnity for the past, and security for the future."

Without the Gazette, how should I know when the school children I left in Columbus, a dozen years ago, mated and commenced business for themselves? Or, that Pete Conrad was running a Homeopathic Insurance Agency? Or that Joe Dowdall was running all the other Insurance Agencies, and a graveyard to boot? Or that Billy Wiatt still reigned supreme in luscious sweets? Or that Gus Stevenson and "Antone" kept the name of Ambos's evergreen? Or that Charley Wagner had the finest oysters and first shad of the season? And that Doc Williams had been elected State Auditor? Ah! who so worthy, who better fitted?

Last June I was a passenger on the elegant steamer, St. Francis, plying on the rivers of Arkansas, under the particular charge of my old friend, Sam Paine, the chief clerk, when one beautiful morning we ran through the draw of the Little Rock Railroad bridge, and up to the landing. Soon along came the train and I bought a Memphis paper, and read therein, among other nominations, that of Mr. Jas. Williams! It was very pleasant reading to me, and carried me back to the good old times in Ohio, when we used to figure, within a thousand, of what our majority would be, (it was always a majority), and how Doc Williams, after successfully conducting a campaign as Secretary of the State Central Committee, and enjoying the pleasure of victory, would carefully wrap up the committee's archives and lay them away in lavender until the next campaign. Who so clever a manager, so full of wit and anecdote? Rare, companionable old Doc Williams; I wish he was Governor.

Georgia has changed front in politics and now flies the unadulterated Democratic flag in its State government. Well, I don't know as a change once in a while does any damage; cleans the thing out, you know. Our new Governor, Smith, has the reputation of honesty and ability, and is a perfect gentleman. I can perceive no Ku-Kluxery about the new administration, and think the people are, generally, content.

Atlanta still keeps on her wonderful march of improvement, there being hundreds of new buildings in course of construction. The city is well governed, and from an overgrown village is rapidly assuming a metropolitan appearance.

Chattanooga, Tennessee, closely connected with Atlanta by railroad, is also rapidly increasing in population and fine buildings. A large number of Ohio men are engaged in business there, and the last four Mayors of the city were all Ohio men, including Capt. A. G. Sharpe, of Columbus, who is now City Judge.

The mineral regions of Tennessee, around Chattanooga, and of Georgia, down to Atlanta, and of Alabama, recently opened by railroads, and roads to be built, are bound to teem with population, abound in wealth and flourish, the garden spots of the South.

☞ In one of the Western States there resided a family consisting of an old man by the name of Beaver and his three sons, all of whom were very wicked. They had often laughed to scorn the advice and entreaties of a pious and very eccentric minister who resided in the same town. It happened that one of the boys was bitten by a rattlesnake, and was expected to die, when the minister was sent for in great haste. On his arrival he found the young man very penitent, and anxious to be prayed with. The minister kneeled down and prayed in this wise: "Ah, Lord, we thank thee for rattlesnakes; we thank thee because a rattlesnake has bitten him. We pray thee send a rattlesnake to bite John; send one to bite Bill, and, O, Lord, send the biggest kind of a rattlesnake to bite the old man, for nothing but rattlesnakes will ever bring the Beaver family to repentance."

FASHION CHIT-CHAT—CALICO DRESSES. Calico wrappers are very appropriate for ladies while superintending their domestic duties. The low-priced American prints, in narrow stripes or small figures of clear color with white, make neat looking sacque wrappers. For wrappers for washing goods, even of the plainest fabric, the Spanish flounce without the skirt extending under it is recommended, as it is difficult to iron the sloped edge of the skirt so that it will retain its shape. This flounce may be either straight or bias; in striped goods the bias flounce is most effective; but care should be taken to cut it exactly bias, or it will not look well after being washed. Put a three-inch hem on the lower edge, a very narrow one on the upper, gather it (without a cord) an inch from the top, and stitch on the edge of the skirt with a machine.

The shepherd answered, "Ay, my lord but if ye had been a sheep ye wad have had mair sense."

☞ The true art of being agreeable is to appear well pleased with all the company, and rather to seem well entertained with them than to bring entertainment to them. A man thus disposed may have not much learning, nor any wit; but if he has common sense, and something friendly in his behavior, it conciliates men's minds more than the brightest parts without this disposition.

A full report of the decisions of the Supreme Court is furnished to THE CONSTITUTION exclusively, by the Reporter of the Court.

☞ The Third Avenue Savings Bank in New York, which is hard run and about to get into a receiver's hands, has $80,000 of Georgia bonds among its assets.

Usury.

In Virginia the established rate of interest is 12 per cent. In North Carolina it is 7 per cent. The result is that North Carolina money is leaving home and seeking investment in Virginia.

☞ James F. Legate, who has just been made Governor of Washington Territory by Grant has been charged with a number of crimes for a long time. He bribed members of the Kansas Legislature, and was a suborner of forgery. Grant knew it.

The Public Laws.

THE CONSTITUTION office is prepared to supply orders for the Public Laws of Georgia, passed at the November session, with an appendix containing Court Calendar, the Government of Georgia, etc. Price per pamphlet, $1. Apply at the business office.

Supreme Court Appointment.

Yesterday Governor Smith appointed Hon. William W. Montgomery, of Augusta, Judge of the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Warner and his elevation to the office of Chief Justice.

Mr. Montgomery is about forty-four years of age, possesses a commanding person and very marked abilities, and is a gentleman of fine culture and great purity of character. In the eastern part of the State, where he is well known and universally esteemed, he is regarded as one of the best lawyers we have, and it is believed that he will make an able, [illegible] and upright Judge. His appointment holds until the reassembling of the Legislature in July next.

We have no direct authority for saying what are Mr. Montgomery's views in regard to the relief and homestead laws, but we hear from his friends, and doubt not it is true, that he does not think it would be wise at this late day to disturb those laws and the current of decisions rendered by our Supreme Court. Rights have grown up under these laws, and whatever may have been thought while they were original questions, the time seems to have passed when they could be safely disturbed.

Senator Norwood.

We find the following brief reference to Senator Norwood, in the debate on Sumner and Carpenter's amendments to the amnesty bill which provides for negro social equality:

Mr. Norwood, of Georgia, argued against Mr. Sumner's amendment as unconstitutional, and calculated to nullify the laws of several of the States prohibiting the

INTERMARRIAGE OF BLACKS AND WHITES.

He thought Mr. Carpenter's substitute also unconstitutional, and said he would base his vote against both amendments on that ground.

Mr. Wilson said he would vote for Sumner's amendment just because it went so far, and in the most positive manner made all distinctions on account of color illegal in the United States. The question of intermarriage raised by Mr. Norwood had been settled in Massachusetts thirty years ago; that State had repealed her law on the subject at that time and all the predictions of the dreadful results that were to follow had signally failed. A great deal had been heard for years about the superiority of the white race and the marked distinction between whites and blacks, but everywhere abundant evidence was to be seen that those distinctions had often been disregarded. He wished to see all laws based on a difference of race abolished as unchristian, inhuman and undemocratic.

Mr. Pomeroy thought the people of Georgia and other States could be trusted to choose their wives and husbands without the interference of any law. He objected to the phrase used by Mr. Wilson—"the different races of men." He knew of but one race—the human race.

The English and Yankee War-Cloud.

The dispute between England and the United States that is the latest sensation lies in a nutshell. The two countries agreed, by treaty duly ratified by both parties, to submit the Alabama Claims trouble to a set of arbitrators to meet in Geneva.

The United States has made out and submitted its claim. This includes not only the actual damages done by Southern cruisers, which [illegible] the English understanding of what was to be comprehended in the case, but also includes "indirect damages, such as expenditures of the United States in pursuit of these cruisers, losses in the transfer of the American Commercial marine to the British flag, enhanced payments of insurance, and the additional cost of prolonging the civil war a year or two.

The direct damages sum up somewhere in the region of twenty millions of dollars. The "indirect" damages will reach into billions. The margin stretches immeasurably. The English deny that the treaty involved the consideration of "indirect" damages, and refuse to let the arbitrators entertain them. The United States authorities insist that the whole case be submitted.

The matter is being officially discussed by the governments of both countries.

In the English Parliament the government party has been assailed for making the treaty and being overreached by the Yankees, and the English premier, Gladstone, has declared in reply that the claim for indirect damages was absurd and would not be submitted to.

In the United States Congress a resolution for the President to send in any information as to the purpose of England to revoke the treaty [illegible].

The [illegible] phase of the fight, as usual, is that between the New York and London papers. The press always jabbers the loudest and the most. Such a lively rattle of newspaper musketry has not been heard in a long time.

The matter at present is in a muddle, and no one can tell how it will end, save that the prospect of war is [illegible].

[illegible]

☞ Mr. [illegible] for February, thinks that man is not physically stronger than woman, but it [illegible] quiring [illegible] power [illegible] that one may [illegible] tending to [illegible] life, he is [illegible] wear and tear of [illegible] show her power of [illegible] of children is [illegible] which [illegible] a man. The [illegible] does not [illegible] most wonderful evidence of woman's vitality.

"[illegible] a telegram from Frankfort [illegible] appealed to by [illegible] Congress and the President [illegible] procedure that will strike every one as being decidedly appropriate under the circumstances. If Grant and his Congressional satellites had not foisted Bullock upon the people of Georgia, regardless of the fact that he was defeated by a very large majority of votes, there would now be no bogus Georgia bonds in the market, and our German friends, who appear to have been most foully dealt with in this business, might masticate their pretzels and gulp their lager in peace. A special appropriation by Congress for the purpose of indemnifying these swindled bond holders would not be out of place; but as matters stand, it is the extreme of simplicity to suppose that the people of Georgia, who have already been mercilessly plundered, will redeem bonds that really have no legal existence. In the meantime, the gay and gallant Clews is still flooding the State with his high-toned pamphlets. His last is a reply to the annual report of Treasurer Angier, and comprises, among other things equally absurd, a dignified argument to the effect that Angier left the South during the war. Reduced to a syllogism, it amounts to about this: A soldier is a patriot; Angier was not a soldier; therefore, these Georgia bonds should be redeemed. This is so exquisitely humorous that we are almost inclined to impute it to the facetious pen of that mad wag Lochrane.

Delaware Gouging Massachusetts.

Occasionally some keen-witted chap speaks out in meeting, or rather in Congress, and gets off something good. Of course when our Puritanic brothers in good old sanctimonious Massachusetts are gored and gouged, it don't make us weep very much, not more than about half a tear. We condole with the mashed brothers, and do it violently, but we submit with philosophical resignation.

In a discussion the other day on the educational bill, Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, having previously scored Delaware, Mr. Biggs, from that little State, came back at Mr. Hoar, and chalked up some little scores against Massachusetts in the following lively way, winding up with a very touching slash at the Radical party in connection with the South.

Mr. Biggs, of Delaware, opposed the bill. He turned his attention to the speech made by Mr. Hoar some weeks ago, in which some allusions were made to the discredit of Delaware, and said he would read the criminal statistics of the saintly State of Massachusetts. He would read the crimes in their alphabetical order. They used up all the letters of the alphabet except the last four. [Laughter.] He found that in four years, 1866, '67, '68 and '69—the number of criminal prosecutions in Massachusetts was 10,086. They had increased from 1,945 in 1866 to 3,456 in 1869. And what were those crimes? Arson, adultery, burglary, bigamy, [laughter] conspiring to defraud, drunkenness, defacing [illegible], [laughter] forgery, horse stealing, [laughter] highway robbery, keeping [illegible] without license, [laughter] night-walking, [laughter] obtaining money under false pretences, [laughter] perjury, poligamy, [illegible] on Sunday, attempting [illegible] to pay railroad fares, [illegible] prints, selling [illegible] to burn churches. [illegible] the honorable gentleman [illegible] talked about the [illegible] he should tell the House [illegible] presented such a black record of crime. [Laughter.]

* * * * * * * *

I will now proceed to read something which I think is refreshing. The gentleman said in his speech the other day, with what perfect hatred, with what bitter relentless hatred has the Democratic party pursued those unhappy States of the South; how that party has sought to fasten on that beautiful and unfortunate section of the land, everything that degrades mankind. Sir, there is not a man in America to-day, outside an insane asylum, who believes it. The honorable gentleman in his sober moments [roars of laughter] would not have ventured to make that statement. We as Democrats are friends, not only of the South, but of the North and East, and West. Who was it that sent down the epauletted scoundrels to the Southern States for the purpose of persecuting the South? Who is your Governor Bullock, who is your Governor Holden, who was your Governor Scott; and who is your Governor Warmouth? All loyal people! Oh, how they loved the South! They loved her while she had greenbacks for them to finger.

[illegible]

"This is a novel written by Mrs. Maria Jourdan Westmoreland, of Atlanta, Ga., and published by G. W. Carleton & Co., of New York. The grand principle set forth in this volume is, that happiness in the marriage relation can only be secured by that constant tenderness and care of the parties for each other which are based upon warm and demonstrative love. It is not sufficient that a husband be a reliable and admirable provider for the physical wants of his family. The heart demands that the man shall not sit reticent, self-absorbed and silent in the midst of his family. Kind words of affection, little thoughtful services to prove the slumbering warmth of the soul, constant expression to indicate gratitude and appreciation for these trifling efforts to please are all enumerated in this volume as essentials to the preservation of the integrity and exquisitely delicate existence of love. The man who allows the engrossments of his business to invade the home admits a demon. The woman who forgets to note and provide for the peculiarities of her husband's tastes and wishes, renders her home undesirable for him. In a word, ever-present and ever-demonstrative gentleness must reign, or the heart starves and turns elsewhere for relief for its natural burden of affection. Maud Livingstone married to escape persecution and cruelty. The motive should have been love, as that is the great actuating impulse by the ordination of God. All other motive is sinful, and no true marriage can be formed without it. Even after that fatal step, she might have been won to love by attention, sympathy and ever-recurring gentleness. But her husband allowed the all-absorbing cares of the office to become the inmates of the sanctuary of home. Her poetic, musical, tender nature turned from him unconsciously to another heart all tenderness and appreciation—D'Estaing. Heart-hungry, she drank in this accomplished stranger's love as the desert [illegible] at the long-denied [illegible] of the oasis.

[illegible] God and recognized [illegible] desperately [illegible] for D'Estaing [illegible], you will realize and sympathize with the woman's struggle when the sceptre of a great love waves its terrible edicts over the heart, and the [illegible] thunder away in [illegible]. 'You are a strong man, I but a weak woman, and I demand your assistance in the performance of my duty elsewhere; leave me, bury me in oblivion, while my prayers and tears shall accompany you.' Thus she wrote to the stranger [illegible] her home where she lived [illegible] though a most admirable man of business sat beside her as her husband. The heart turned to the sunshine. D'Estaing [illegible] that sunshine. Her husband was [illegible] and gloom.

"There is great dramatic power manifest in 'Heart-Hungry.' It has all the warmth and glow of the heart where it was [illegible] [illegible] a tear [illegible] she rises [illegible] and the [illegible] who wounded the cowering [illegible] his legions of destruction [illegible] followed by [illegible] known as [illegible] there was a grandeur [illegible] with awe, and frequently she would [illegible] upon some cliff, gazing at the clouds as they grew blacker, and listening to the roaring of heaven's artillery, until the big drops would patter down, and she would be drenched before reaching the house. A great dreamer at other times she would sit for hours on Point Lookout and study the clouds as they floated lazily up from the silvery Tennessee, until, rising higher and higher, they would envelop her in their fleecy robes, and then fade away into the blue ether above, and be lost to sight."

This novel will find responsive readers among the heart-hungry everywhere. It is not the author's first venture, she being well known in Southern literary circles through her dramas and contributions to the periodicals of the day.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The High Joint Treaty Muddle—The Prospects of War with England—Grant's Chances for Re-election—Young Bennett of the Herald—Senator Norwood's First Speech Complimented—Other Matters.

WASHINGTON, February 5, 1872.

The news relative to England's withdrawal from the Washington treaty naturally created some excitement here, though official circles do not anticipate trouble. The cable dispatches do not, however, present a clear statement of the case, and need explanation. The case to be presented by this government to the Geneva conference has been made public, and is found to contain not only the Alabama claims, but much greater ones for "constructive damages," viz.: the losses sustained by the destruction of our commerce, as well as those sustained during the last two years of the war, it being asserted that England's policy caused this prolongation. These claims for constructive damages appear preposterous to the English people, and it is safe to say they will never be considered. The demand, however, has excited the London press, and has led to the statements telegraphed that unless these claims are dropped the treaty must be abrogated. This government has undoubtedly made a fatal mistake in presenting these claims for "constructive damages." England is evidently disposed to make a fair settlement for the depredations of the Alabama, and her sister cruisers, which cleared from British ports, but she will go to war rather than submit to imposition. The Geneva Conference has come to a stop for another reason, and that is that all the documents have to be translated into French before they can be read by the arbitrators. Altogether it looks very much as though the treaty will end in failure, leaving the relations between this country and Great Britain in a worse condition than before. Should this prove the case Grant will be nowhere in the Presidential contest. This treaty has been considered the largest feather in the cap of his administration, and that it should ever come to be dragged in the dust is a misfortune none had contemplated. This naturally prompts the inquiry as to for re-nomination. Should the convention meet to-morrow, it would be safe to predict he would have a comparatively easy victory. But every day lessens his hold upon the politicians and the people. The [illegible] corruptions of his administration, which have been traced even within the White House, the rapidly accumulating list of defaulters and the criminal waste of the people's money, are arousing a feeling throughout the country that must make itself felt at no distant day. The delay in granting amnesty and the refusal to lighten the burdens of taxation, are likewise nails in the Radical coffin.

The New York Herald has lately come out squarely for Grant, but that journal is too much of a weather-cock and of too low repute to render its support of great value. Indeed there is no newspaper in the country which has so little political influence in proportion to circulation. The secret of its present move is that young Jim Bennett wants a foreign mission. He is afflicted with an uncontrollable itching for notoriety, and not content with being elected Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, he wants the colonelcy of the Ninth Regiment, made vacant by the death of Fisk. If he does not succeed in getting a foreign appointment from Grant, the Herald will undoubtedly wheel into opposition again.

SATURDAY'S SPEECH-MAKING.

When the House meets "for debate only," as is its usual custom on Saturday, the attendance is invariably slim, even the reporters deserting the gallery on that day. To-day's papers give a bare outline of a few only of the speeches made on Saturday last, and do not even indicate the subjects of which the later speeches treated. To ascertain this, one has to resort to yesterday's Globe, and there to learn that "Mr. Rainy's remarks are withheld for revision." Rainey is a colored Representative from South Carolina. Watts, of Florida, a darky of the deepest dye, also delivered a "few feeble remarks;" or, rather, read them from manuscript. He got through the first page glibly enough, but stumbled painfully over the others, making it very evident that some one had written the speech for him, and that he found some difficulty in reading the manuscript. He attempted to reply to the speech of Mr. McIntyre on the educational bill, from which he quoted liberally, and attacked the system of your State, charging that Georgia is opposed to free schools and "the education of the negro and poor white children." He alleged further that "the Democratic party in Georgia, as well as in all of the other Southern States, have been opposed to the education of the negro and poor white children. And I can, without doing that party any wrong, safely and truthfully state that the Democratic party today in Georgia, as well as in Florida, are opposed to the education of all classes." His whole speech was wholly made up of these statements, oft repeated. Once Mr. McIntyre asked leave to make a correction, but was discourteously refused. Watt's made a decided failure of it, which has deeply grieved the negro-loving Radicals, who have been putting him forward as a very great gun.

AMNESTY.

It is given out that Senator Robertson will abandon the amnesty bill to its fate. He had it in charge by reason of being chairman of the special committee from which it was reported, but has proved unable to cope with the wily Morton and the tricky Bantling, and so withdraws from the unequal contest. It is to be hoped some other friend of the measure, with more parliamentary experience, will come to the rescue. The Senate to-day refused to take up the amnesty bill which passed the House a short time since, as a substitute for its own bill. This action will bring about a vote on Sumner's supplemental civil rights bill, which is pending as an amendment, and the indications at present writing are that it will be adopted. This will inevitably defeat the amnesty bill, as it is conceded that with Sumner's amendment it cannot pass the House.

Senator Norwood delivered his maiden speech to-day. He spoke in favor of amnesty and in opposition to Sumner. He made a very favorable impression on his hearers. He has a fine delivery—is a graceful and effective speaker, and his arguments indicate close reasoning and careful study. He will certainly make his mark in the Senate, and all who heard him to-day say Georgia did well in sending him here.

A PRESS DINNER.

The representatives of the press at the National Capital are to have a dinner at Welcher's on Saturday evening next. It will include only the legitimate members of the profession and their guests, among whom will be the Vice President, Speaker Blaine, Senator Anthony, and Hons. James Brooks, S. S. Cox, and others. The attendance of these gentlemen is a pretty good guarantee of the character and standing of the Washington correspondents.

THE NEW ORLEANS INVESTIGATION.

It is very evident that the Congressional Committee sent to New Orleans [illegible] solid grip on the Associated Press [illegible] that day. [illegible] Warmouth [illegible] in order that the whitewash [illegible] Custom House clique is to be liberally [illegible] is to make it appear that the [illegible] is seeing [illegible] will soon be brought to a close.

THE BONDS OF GEORGIA.

Official Notice to the Bond Holders.

An Act

To protect the people of the State of Georgia against the illegal and fraudulent issue of bonds and securities, and for other purposes connected with the same.

Whereas, Divers bonds, purporting to be bonds of the State of Georgia, and divers bonds bearing the indorsement of the State, have been issued and put in circulation by Rufus B. Bullock, late Governor of said State, and divers bonds issued prior to his administration, have been negotiated by him: And whereas, it is believed that a large portion of said bonds have been illegally and fraudulently issued and negotiated, and the extent and amount of said bonds so issued and negotiated is unknown to this General Assembly.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, That there shall be a committee appointed of three, one by the President of the Senate, and two by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who shall have full power and authority to examine and ascertain the number of bonds which have been issued as hereinbefore recited in the preamble of this act, and the aggregate amount thereof, and so far as they have been sold or hypothecated, by whom sold, the amount of money paid, to whom paid, when paid, for what purpose negotiated, and all other facts connected with the history of said bonds and to report the same to the General Assembly at its next session.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, That said committee so appointed, be authorized and required to meet and sit in the city of Atlanta during a term not exceeding sixty days, commencing March 1, 1872, for the purpose named in the first section of this act, and said committee are hereby invested with full power and authority to examine witnesses under oath, to send for persons, books and papers, and to exercise such other power as may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

Section 3. Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of said committee, immediately after their appointment to give notice of the time and place of sitting by publishing this preamble and act, at least two months prior to their sitting, in two newspapers in the city of Atlanta, two in the city of New York, two in the city of London, and one in the city of Frankfort.

Section 4. Be it enacted further, That all persons holding bonds of the State of Georgia, or bearing the indorsement of said State, issued since July, 1868, are hereby required to report the same to said committee for registration [illegible] 1872, and upon failure so to report said bonds, and to submit the same for registration, the same shall be deemed prima facie to have been illegally or fraudulently issued.

Section 5. Be it further enacted, That the Treasurer of said State, be, and he is hereby prohibited from paying any interest on any bonds issued, negotiated or indorsed by the State since the 4th day of July 1868, until said Committee shall have made their report and the General Assembly shall otherwise direct.

Section 6. Be it further enacted, That nothing contained in this act shall be so construed as to pledge the State of Georgia to the payment of any bonds issued or indorsed by the State since the 4th day of July, 1868, by reason of said bonds being registered as prescribed in this act, should it afterwards appear that the same have been illegally or fraudulently issued.

Section 7. Be it further enacted, That the Governor be and he is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant upon the Treasury in favor of said committee, or such persons as they may designate for an amount sufficient to defray the expenses of publishing this preamble, and such other printing as may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

Section 8. Be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws militating against this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

OFFICE SECRETARY OF STATE,
ATLANTA, GA., December 12, 1871.

The above and foregoing four pages of written matter contain a true and correct copy of the original of file in this office.

Given under my hand and the seal of office.

DAVID G. COTTING,
Secretary of State.

To all whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that we, the undersigned Joint Committee, appointed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, under authority of the foregoing act of the General Assembly of Georgia, will begin our sittings in the city of Atlanta, State of Georgia, United States of America, on the first day of March, 1872, and will remain in session until the first day of May, 1872, for the purposes indicated in said act.

The attention of persons owning or holding the bonds of the State of Georgia, or the bonds of railroads indorsed by the State of Georgia, and who expect to present the same to the Committee, is called to the first section of said act, as to the nature of the testimony required.

Persons desiring to communicate with the Committee will address Thomas J. Simmons, Chairman, care of N. L. Angier, State Treasurer, Atlanta, Ga.

Signed at the Capitol in the city of Atlanta, State of Georgia, United States of America, the 18th day of December, 1871.

The sums awarded to American citizens by the American and Mexican Commission to the 8th instant is over a half million. The whole amount aggregates eleven and a half millions. Awards to Mexicans only $26,000. Their claims aggregate eighteen millions [illegible] subsidies and bounties to encourage American ship building.

Private dispatches report positively that the Governor of Florida will be impeached.

The Educational bill which passed the House to-day, was originally introduced by Pierce, of Mississippi, Chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor. It consecrates public lands to public education. One-half the proceeds of the sales of public lands are to be distributed annually among the different States during the first ten years, upon a basis of illiteracy as shown by the present census. The other half is to be invested and the interest to be used for educational purposes. No State loses its share of the fund by legal enactments forbidding mixed schools. After ten years the distribution will be upon the basis of a population instead of illiteracy.

A policeman was seriously and several persons badly injured by an attack of a gang of rowdies early this morning at the ball of the Mutual Social Club in the Continental Hall.

The raid on the whisky distilleries of Brooklyn was continued to-day. Few discoveries were made.

MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, February 8.—A letter to Postmaster Hurt says the fire at Ogdensburg on Tuesday morning destroyed all the mail matter, including the registered letters which left Boston Monday morning for Ogdensburg and beyond. The passenger depot of the Ogdensburg and Lower Canada Railroad freight depot, two cars and considerable freight were burned.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, February 8.—The Daily Telegraph, in criticising the utterances of the American journalists on the subject, says the English government, in the stand it took, only obeyed the unanimous impulse of the country, but the speeches of Gladstone are [illegible], and will probably prove mischievous.

In the House of Commons to-day, Gladstone moved a vote of thanks to Dennison, the retiring Speaker of the House, and also a resolution recommending his elevation to peerage.

Disraeli seconded both motions and they were carried by acclamation.

In accordance with the notice given yesterday, Mr. Milbank proposed to call upon Sir Charles Dilke to justify before the House his recent speeches against the Crown, but was ruled out of order.

A PROCLAMATION.

GEORGIA:

By James M. Smith, Governor of said State.

Whereas, Official information has been received at this Department that Joseph Fry, who has been confined in the common jail of Fulton county, in pursuance of a Bench Warrant issued by and from the Superior Court of said county, charging him with the offense of cheating and swindling, made his escape from said jail on the 6th day of February instant, and is now at large: I have thought proper, therefore, to issue this, my proclamation, hereby offering a reward of Five Hundred Dollars for the apprehension and delivery of the said Joseph Fry to the Sheriff of said county and State, in order that he may be brought to trial for the offense with which he stands charged.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State at the Capitol in Atlanta, this seventh day of February, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and seventy-two, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-sixth.

JAMES M. SMITH.

By the Governor:

DAVID G. COTTING,
Secretary of State.

DESCRIPTION.

The said Fry is about 35 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches high, weighs about 150 pounds, blue eyes, brown hair and false front teeth.

BLIND TOM.—Blind Tom, the great musical prodigy, gives two entertainments in Atlanta next week.

A RUSH.—The people are "heart-hungry" for those fine pianos at Phillips & Crew's. A run is being made for them.

"JOHN LONG CORN."—Francis Fontaine, at Cartersville, offers an early variety of corn by the above name, at $4 per bushel.

MARDI GRAS.—The train will leave to-night, via Blue Mountain route, for New Orleans. We learn that quite a crowd will leave on it from Atlanta.

COMMITTED.—Justice Butt yesterday committed Frank Gilham, colored, for stealing fence posts from M. W. Raspberry, in default of $250 bail.

A FINE INVESTMENT.—We call special attention to the advertisement of J. O. Galley, real estate agent at Athens, offering the tan yard, belonging to the estate of P. H. Doyle, for sale. It is valuable property and will be a safe and paying investment.

GEORGIA NATIONAL BANK.—In this case the State is represented by Linton Stephens, Solicitor General J. T. Glenn, General Robert Toombs and Collier & [illegible]. Colonel L. E. Bleckley is counsel for the Bank, and it is probable that A. T. Akerman will also be engaged.

INHUMAN.—We learned yesterday of an act of inhumanity on the part of two colored men to another man, who roomed with them. He was taken sick, and to get rid of him they pulled him out in the hall on a mattress and left him there. The wretches should be watched.

DEATH OF REV. RICHARD JOHNSON.—Rev. Richard Johnson, an Episcopalian Divine, who lived in this city for many years, and recently returned here from Louisiana, where he has been laboring as a missionary, will be buried from St. Philip's Church this afternoon.

TRULY SAD.—Three little girls buried alive in this city between Decatur street and the Ivy Street School. Nothing has been found of either of them but a hair pin and a piece of neck ribbon. The parents of the little darlings refuse to be comforted! City Fathers! where art thou? JUSTICE.

THE "PEOPLE'S CHOICE."—Colonel R. F. Maddox has a fine brand of cigars which he has introduced in this market, named "The People's Choice," which is appropriately adorned with a handsome likeness of Governor James M. Smith. They are honest, good cigars.

GEORGIA BANKING AND TRUST COMPANY By reference to the advertisement of this sterling company, it will be seen that their list of stockholders, who are individually liable to depositors, embraces many prominent citizens of Atlanta. All are native Georgians. There is no institution sounder or more safely managed.

IN DISTRESS.—An old bachelor writes us that he found in the slush near the corner of Whitehall and Hunter streets a queer looking object. He submitted it to the inspection of a commission of Benedicts and widowers, who pronounced it a "Leap Year's trick"—a bracelet for that part of the person to which the foot is attached. Its clasps are of the purest gold, while the hooks and eyes shine like silver. The aforesaid bachelor thinks it dangerous to keep it, as it resembles a noose. He has dreamt of nothing but cherubs and Cupid's darts and melting hearts ever since. To quiet his mind he has concluded that he will take the young lady who will fit the bracelet, and has left the duty of "adjusting" the bracelet to "ye Local," who likes such elegant feats.

THEODORE THOMAS' ORCHESTRA.—The concert given last night by this troupe was a musical treat, the like of which has never been equalled in the musical annals of Atlanta. This reporter is no cultivated critic of music, nor would he expose himself in a laudation of either the orchestral powers of the troupe, or of the merits of their leader, whose skill in guiding successfully such a formidable show of violins, violincellos, bass drums, horns, trumpets, clarionettes, trombones, cymbals, and an arry of other instruments.

He can only say that Mr. Thomas presides over this mammoth Orchestra in such a manner as to give ample proof of the laborious study of a life time. All in the company are so trained that the bowing and fingering of the string instruments is in perfect unison, together with the uniform phrasing of the wind instruments, causing it to have the same strength and power, at least, as another orchestra of double the number. With a motion of the wand in the hands of the maestro, the wave of melody was delicious. Not a false note punctuated the flood of liquid music.

It was absolute perfection, nothing to mar the delicious sensations created; it was the realization of all that the most vivid immagination could suggest of heavenly and divine music, and what variety and scope there presented. All interpreted in the same masterly manner by sixty artists playing as one man, like some vast organ throbbing under the touch of a single hand. To all this embarras de richesse Mr. Thomas added on the occasion the attraction of Miss Krebs' playing, who by the grace of her person and gifted hand, won the hearts of her hearers.

The evening's entertainment opened with the stirring and fanciful overture to Tannhauser, which was given in a splendid and spirited manner.

Straus' poetical waltz "On the beautiful blue Danube," was listened to by all with delight. Liszts' arrangement of the spirited "Masaniello," was rendered with great vigor of touch by Miss Krebs. "Polonaise Brilliant of 72—Weber" of Miss K., was most approvingly received. The accuracy and fullness of her playing is admirable.

But we have not the space to speak of orchestral gems, delightful solos, and concerted pieces, or we may truthfully say that each piece performed by this peerless combination deserved all the terms of superlative praise bestowed by those present. Throughout the entire programme, no part of which was unsatisfactory, the audience gave repeated notification of their delight by the most enthusiastic and prolonged applause.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE.—W. D. Cook sued out by his attorneys, Gen. Gartrell, Judge Lochrane and Judge D. F. Hammond, a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Daniel Pittman, Ordinary of Fulton county, yesterday morning.

The State was represented by Solicitor General J. T. Glenn and Gen. Robert Toombs.

The following is a copy of the order committing Cook to jail:

ATLANTA, GA., CAPITOL BUILDING, }
Room No. 25. }

The committee of the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, appointed by resolution approved December 1, 1871, to investigate the administration of the Western and Atlantic Railroad and the management of its finances with said management which go to show the fraudulent use or embezzlement of any funds or property belonging to the State, or the wrongful conversion thereof to the use of individuals, and by whom and for whose benefit it was done, having issued subpœnas and caused them to be served upon Louis Scofield, Sr., W. D. Cook and Henry S. Cave, requiring them to appear before said committee and produce before said committee, to be used as evidence, the books of the Scofield Rolling Mill Company for the year 1870, and said persons having failed and refused to produce the same, and it further appearing that the said books are within the control of said Scofield, Cook and Cave—

It is ordered by the committee that the said Louis Scofield, Sr., William D. Cook and Henry S. Cave be taken in custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms of this committee and by him delivered to the Jailor of the county of Fulton, and by said Jailor kept in custody until the further order of this committee, or until the production of said books.

By order of the committee:
MARION A. CANDLER, Chairman.
JOHN A. [illegible], Clerk.
January [illegible], 1872.

The following is a copy of Cook's affidavit.

STATE OF GEORGIA, Fulton county.

W. D. Cook comes before the undersigned and after being sworn, says that he is now imprisoned in the common jail of Fulton county, without knowing for what he is confined, but is informed that he is imprisoned for contempt of the committee formed by the Legislature of the State of Georgia to investigate the [illegible] and management of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, and that said contempt arises in the fact that he has failed to produce certain books of the Scofield Rolling Mill Company, which notice [illegible] in his power, custody or control.

W. D. COOK.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 8th February 1872.
A. E. [illegible], N.P.

The italics are ours to show the adroitness of the affidavit. [illegible] books are not now, nor have not been at any time in [illegible]

Judge Dennis F. Hammond opened the argument for the petitioner. He contended that the Committee could not commit the petitioner for a contempt of the Committee, but even if the power existed, the petitioner had discharged the contempt by his affidavit.

Judge Hammond read the petition. There were warrants against petitioner based on this same case, and he cannot be legally required to give evidence against himself. The order of the Committee was for failing to produce the books. If petitioner had lied to the Committee, it was perjury and not contempt. Cook was imprisoned for a crime then. If petitioner stole the money he would not defend him. If he was guilty he ought to stay in jail until the lice nipped his flesh off of his body!

Congress and the Legislature had no power when not in session.

Gen. Toombs. If you wish for your own amusement to argue the question of contempt of the Legislature, do so. I shall hold that this (act of December 1st, 1871,) is the law of the land.

Judge H. contended that nobody could punish for contempt unless it possessed the dignity of a court. It was a flagrant abuse of discretion by the committee.

Judge Lochrane followed in one of his most grandiloquent and effervescent efforts. He said the question at issue was "can a legislative committee incarcerate a man in jail." The order committing petitioner was a groundless pretext. The Legislature can not abridge the citizen of his rights, privileges, and immunities, without due process of law. If the resolution of December 1, 1871, violates the Constitution of Georgia and of the United States it is not law. The right of the people to appeal to the courts can not be taken away. A refusal to appear and testify or produce books was a contempt of the House and not of the committee. The House could no more delegate this power than a Judge could the sacredness of his office. The power of courts to punish for contempt is limited by legislative enactment. The absolute rights of the individual are beyond the power of conventions, of constitutions and committees to violate with impunity. There was no power to compel the production of books. The act does not give any such power to the committee. Power must exist in express terms, not by implication or construction. There was no law for the commitment; no contempt of the committee; no law for the production of books and papers. The committee could send for persons and papers; but could not compel them.

Gen. Robert Toombs in appearing for the Committee remarked that the enquiry was a narrow one. The court was simply to enquire whether the petitioner was committed according to law. Lochrane's speech was eloquent but did not apply to this case. He would go as far as any for legal security of personal liberty. Judge Pittman was now sitting under the act of Charles 2nd. Unlawful imprisonment ought to be resisted by courts, by juries, and even by arms, if they should fail. The simple question was: "Is petitioner imprisoned according to law." Liberty was not license. We had suffered four years under a corrupt Legislature forced on us by the bayonet; for three years under a corrupt Executive foisted on us by false counting and fraud; and for nearly the same period under a corrupt Judiciary. The Legislature that passed this act was elected by an unfettered people. The petitioner was only a private in the army of rogues, spewed out by New England upon us, who bring morality and theft with them. We had a railroad and other property once, but it is all stolen and is now all in the hands of honest men!

While the Government of the United States was one of delegated powers, there was no trouble about the power of the Georgia Legislature. The first could only exercise the power delegated; the latter could exercise all not expressly prohibited.

The committee was granted plenary powers under the common law to send for persons and papers. (See Act, December 1st, 1871.) The law speaks to command, and commands to be obeyed. Under the old Constitution the whole military power of the government would be brought to the support of a constable in serving a warrant, if necessary, to enforce the law! The petitioner, in his affidavit, don't swear that he did not have the books at the time of the notice. He swears he was not the custodian of them since October, 1870 and did not have the custody or control of them since the notice to produce them.

The books were necessary to show what the amount of the bill against the State Road was. Cook had not complied with the law.

He never saw finer examples to teach morality than those presented by some in Atlanta who flourished like a green bay tree "Lo I looked for them and they could not be found." Where are the Kimballs, Bullocks, etc.—they do not appear here except by counsel. They are fleeing in vain from the wrath to come. God is after these evil-doers and he makes no mistakes. He takes no substitutes in a war from which there is no discharge. God is not slack as men count slackness.

The Legislature is omnipotent when it does not touch the prerogatives of the Crown. Cooley on Constitutional Limitations was a good work on the constitutional limitations of Congress. It was what we fought for. He held so in the Brooks case because Brooks had a right to whip Sumner. There was no constitutional inhibition on his doing so.

The committee was clothed with the panoply of the law. They represent the majesty of the people and the law of the land. Laws passed by the free consent of the people demands the sympathy of every heart and the support of every hand.

The Supreme Court, much less the Ordinary, could not enter the jail and release the petitioner until purged of the contempt. He alluded to recent acts of Congress giving extraordinary powers to committees, citing the Ku-Klux Committee as an example. He thanked God that there was no peace for the wicked. Bullock, Kimball, Blodgett, et al, would not be put under Tom Alexander's buggy strap until after the judgment of twelve men was obtained.

Once it was held to be contempt to write articles reflecting on a Judge, but now one could whip a Judge on the street without being considered in contempt.

The only hope for these plunderers was in a dishonest Judiciary.

Gen. Gartrell made the concluding argument for the petitioner, stating the points clearly and succinctly. He contended that the petitioner ought to be discharged according to Gen. Toombs' argument. He had admitted that if the affidavit showed that he did not have the books at the time the notice to produce them was served upon him, that the committee ought to discharge him.

Judge Pittman announced that he would render a decision this morning at 10 o'clock. The discussion drew quite a crowd.

The general comment was "Why are the books missing? Doesn't it look suspicious?"

A new Club in New York City, the Standard, founded by Germans, admits ladies to its privileges, and so marks a new departure.

Boards, planks, and scantling to the value of $3,555,193 were imported into the United States during last year, to say nothing of several hundred thousand dollars worth of rough timber, and over two hundred thousand dollars worth of fire wood.

A lady recently married in New York, wore a dress from the master hand of Worth, of Paris, of white velvet, trimmed with flounces of point lace, the front breadth being ornamented with [illegible] and sprays of orange blossoms. The veil was of point lace, fastened with a bunch of white feathers and a diamond aigrette.

Miscellaneous News Items.

A Missouri quarry has cut a granite column [illegible]0 tons.

A remonstrance from 40,000 citizens of St. Louis against the passage of the [illegible] bill has been laid before the [illegible] Senate.

In New Orleans there are [illegible] establishments with an aggregate capital of [illegible] engaged in the manufacture of oil and oilcake from cotton seed.

Lady Franklin has offered a reward of $[illegible] for the recovery of the records of the Erebus and Terror, supposed to have been deposited in King William's Island.

The National Rubber Works of Bristol, Rhode Island, have finished a rubber belt 175 feet in length, 4 feet in width, and half an inch thick, and weighs 2,000 pounds.

A sulphur well has been discovered at Putnamville, Illinois, which gushes two feet out of the ground, and prevents any one working near it in consequence of the stench.

The Compass-Flower.

In the great prairies of the Far West there grows a little flower we are told is called the "compass-plant." Like the needle of the compass the flower of this little plant turns always to the north, never failing to guide the traveler safely home. No matter how thick the clouds may be, if he can but find one little compass flower, he will be sure to find his way. Do you think it very nice—this little silent, pretty guide? I think so, and I think it very nice that you and I have a compass-flower, too, not just like the one I have been telling you about, to be sure, but a better one—better, [illegible] us, [illegible] it guides us just as truly. We don't call it "compass flower;" we call it "conscience." But then it tells us very [illegible] to go. Then, if we go where it guides, our little friend [illegible] and [illegible] if we go away from where it points, the little flower will droop, and we are sad. Let us take good care of conscience, our compass-flower, that it may not be hurt and die, and so we lose our faithful guide that ever points to the right way—the way our Heavenly Father wishes us to walk in."

Sharp Shooting.—The following dialogue on "sharp shooting" quietly took place between a Virginia and Yankee picket: "I say, can you fellows shoot?"

"Wal, I reckon we can, some. Down in Mississippi we knock a bumble-bee off a thistleblow at three hundred yards."

"Oh, that ain't nothing to the way we shoot up in Vermount. I belonged to a company [illegible] of a hundred men, and we went out for practice every week. The cap'n draws us up in single file, and sets a cider barrel rolling down hill, and each man takes his shot at the bunghole as it comes up. It is afterwards examined, and if there is a shot that didnt go in the bung-hole the member who missed it is expelled. I belonged to the company [illegible] years and there ain't been nobody expelled yet."

The Supply of Labor in Chicago.—The following has been issued by Mr. N. K. Fairbanks, chairman of the employment committee:

Mechanics and laborers in various parts of the country are making a great mistake in coming to this city [illegible] The supply [illegible] far in excess of the demand, and will be for two months to come. What building is going on is done slowly, and depends on the weather, [illegible] for out door work, while the real advance in building will be delayed until spring. Workingmen, not understanding this, are pouring in from all parts, spending their last dollar to get here, and then appealing to the relief committee for aid when they find there is no work to be had. Those journals which are urging these people to come here at this season are unintentionally doing them a cruel wrong and adding to a city already overburdened with the destitute.

Helmbold Broken Down.—Mr. W. R. Babcock received a dispatch on Monday last from Mobile, Alabama, where his stable is wintering, that his horse had broken down. Although he has five or six horses there and the dispatch fails to mention the horse's name he supposes that it is Helmbold, and started for Mobile on Wednesday evening. As the horses are not yet [illegible] the injury may only be temporary and not permanent. At least we hope such is the case, for the loss of Helmbold will be a serious one to his owner and the [illegible]—Turf, Field and Farm.

TARDREW & CO., 21 Park Row,
FOR $3 A YEAR.

DEVOTED to the material interests of the Southern States, and laboring for the development of [illegible] has met the cordial approval and support of all the Southern States Governments, Immigration Bureaus, [illegible] generally. It gives information of the Railroads, Manufactures, [illegible], Commerce, Agriculture, [illegible] Minerals, [illegible] in fact everything—all over the South.

THE SOUTH

Thousands of copies are every week distributed through this country, North and South, and in Europe.

To make it especially valuable to every business man and household in the South we have departments [illegible] reviews of the markets and [illegible] also [illegible] to every housekeeper.

Every Southern man should give it his support. Every other man that wants to know anything about the South would find it well worth the subscription price.

It is an unsurpassed medium for advertising all descriptions of southern property for sale or exchange, or for inviting labor and capital in any desired channel.

Subscribe for it at once, and induce as many more as you can to do so.

Special inducements in Club rates and Premiums for those who will canvass for us.

NEW YORK.

THIS well known, favorite hotel, has recently been renovated, remodeled and furnished new and elegantly throughout. It is kept on the European plan, and has ample accommodations for [illegible] hundred guests.

The location is more accessible to all parts of New York and Brooklyn than any other house in the city. The Broadway Stages pass the hotel every three minutes, besides various lines of Street Cars, one of which intersects every other route in New York.

It being but two blocks from Fulton Ferry, makes it convenient for those wishing to visit the "City of Churches," as from this Ferry diverge all the principal railroad routes in the city of Brooklyn.

Ruptured

Ruptured persons of Atlanta and vicinity, are respectfully notified that certain [illegible] ents have published the principal part of the following Circular, the one issued by Dr. Sherman, when he opened his office in New York, which circular now forms the first page in his book on Rupture. They have left out his name and substituted their own. Their object is to mislead the public by this deception. How far such men can be trusted with their speculative abilities and assumed skill, the reader may judge.
